Passing the Torch: Farewell Joseph & Welcome Back Daisy!

As summer draws to a close, it's time to bid farewell to our trans-LINK Project Coordinator, Joseph Friedman Burley. Joseph started on the project as an MPH practicum student in Summer 2019. Since rejoining trans-LINK last Fall, Joseph has supported many important activities and publications, including updates to our trans-affirming care curricula and the launch of our #TRANSformative Knowledge advocacy campaign and recent research priority and PARTNER social network analysis surveys. We thank Joseph for his dedication to our work and wish him the best in his Urban Fellowship at the City of Toronto!

We would also like welcome back Daisy Kosa! Daisy will be re-assuming her role as trans-LINK project coordinator after spending the year on maternity leave. She is excited to rejoin the project, reconnect with trans-LINK Network members across the province, and continue working towards a more equitable response to sexual assault against trans people.
